To Whom It May Concern

Our company employed the Radical Waters (Pty) Ltd, ECA technology in order to resolve some serious hygiene challenges in our production plant approximately 4 years ago.

The technology has been used extensively in our production process and has become an integral part thereof, such that if the Radical Waters system goes off line, we shut down our production facility until the system is brought back up.

The solutions provided by the device are applied into the total process water in our sauce bottling plant and provides us with an effective means of product, plant and water decontamination. Radical Waters technology has provided considerable value to our entire sauce production process.

We have received excellent service from Radical Waters over the years and would highly recommend the technology and services offered by them to any organization striving for total plant hygiene management.

Yours faithfully,
